Organization Hall Visits Guidelines, 2015-2016
“Dorm Storming”

Introduction
The residence halls at The George Washington University are home for thousands of students and as such are not public space. The following procedures have been created in accordance with the Residential Community Conduct Guidelines Section IV. 1, in order to allow access to the residence halls for registered student organizations and GW departments only.

Organizations seeking to visit the residences halls must submit the completed application 5 business days in advance of the planned visit. Applications not submitted a minimum of 5 business days in advance will not be approved. The application must include the list of representatives and any materials to be distributed.

Organizations may only enter the halls for the purpose of promotion – sharing information about an organization or event. Fundraising is not allowed within the residence halls.

General Requirements
- Only registered student organizations or GW departments are allowed to visit the residence halls.
- Groups can not promote alcohol-related events in first- or second-year residence halls.
- Hours of availability are 10:00AM – 10:00PM, 7 days a week.
- Visits can be scheduled for no more then 3 hours per hall, 2 days per week.
- Visits are on a first-come, first-serve basis and no more than 2 organizations may visit a residence hall at the same time.
- Any materials to be distributed must be submitted with this application for advanced review. Materials cannot be slid under the doors of the residence halls and can only be given to residents who are present.
- All members of the organization who are visiting the residence halls must be in good judicial standing with the university.

Behavioral Requirements
- All representatives are required to sign-in upon entry of any residence hall if requested to do so. Access cards will not be provided for representatives.
- All organizations are responsible for damage or violations caused by their visiting representatives.
- All representatives must carry their GWorld card with them at all times.
- Organization visits are a courtesy allowed by the University. Organizations need to bear in mind that they are guests and must respect all residents and residential space. All participants of events must abide by the Code of Student Conduct and the RCCGs. Failure to abide by these rules will result in revocation of future visit privileges. All guests must adhere to instructions presented by University officials, including University Police, Center for Student Engagement, and GW Housing staff, concerning their conduct within the buildings, including requests to leave.
